

Futures Thinking Executive Coaching

Do you have a futurist on your leadership team?

If our leaders are not prepared for the future, then all of our strategies, programs and projections will fail. Being futures focussed means that obstacles can be identified early enough to not undermine our plans and new opportunities can be found to provide new resources, markets or opportunities.

This 6 month group and individual coaching program has been designed to allow leaders to develop the mindset, acquire the toolset and hone the skillset to lead their teams and businesses into the future with more confidence and success.

The program is run personally by Charlotte Kemp, Futures Alchemist, a professional member of the Association of Professional Futurists and the President-Elect of the Global Speakers Federation.

Contact us now for more details and to book your team onto the next cohort starting January 2023.

A comprehensive plan

The coaching will outline 3 key areas of development: the futures mindset, toolset and skill set

Professional Insights

Coaching work will focus on relevant trends and emerging issues related to your business sector and region.

Co-Created

Individual work will be complemented with group conversations to get more insight into possibilities.
